HUGE YULE BUSINESS IN RICHMOND LOOMS

Huge Yule Tree Planned In Twentythird st. District

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

How we love the person who tells us that at exactly six o'clock each morning he arises, takes a cold shower and feels like the well known "million dollars."

* * * *

Only about one out of every ten persons who boast about his early rising and his cold shower takes a cold shower. You cant kid the public.

* * * *

In the eastbay region we are particularly fortunate this year. during a period of "depression" throughout the United States.

* * * *

Our jobless here are in the minority, they tell us.

* * * *

In New York and the ease, with winter settling in, the conditions are bad.

* * * *

In yesterday morning's RECORD-HERALD a picture showed some of the unemployed building huts out of boxes and debris at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to house themselves during the winter season.

* * * *

But conditions aren't as bad as they are pictured, however. There is plenty of money in the United States —but it is all lying idle.

* * * *

Thousands of persons, instead of purchasing the articles they need, have been putting their money into the bank, preparing for a "rainy day"—a rainy day that won't come.

* * * *

With so much money lying idle, bankers are seriously thinking of a campaign to educate the people into spending money.

* * * *

A campaign like this should bring a lot of benefits to the public.

* * * *

Things are cheap now—cheaper than they have ever been in the last ten years.

* * * *

Food is cheap. Last year at this time, one paid 67 cents a dozen for medium sized eggs. Today you pay 28 cents at the most for the same sized eggs.

* * * *

Furniture and clothing are cheaper. Automobiles have been cut in prices.

* * * *

But then, those who have money, still deny themselves under the foolish delusion that hard times are coming.

* * * *

Everybody can play his part in helping the unemployment situation by buying—creating a demand and the supply will follow.

THE WEATHER

Cloudy Wednesday and Thursday, moderate temperature; gentle changeable winds.

PARTY FOR KIDDIES SEEN

Aided by a group of civic minded persons, plans are going forward rapidly for the erection of a gigantic Christmas tree at Twenty-third street and Macdonald avenue.

Although only tentative arrangements have been made thus far, it is understood that a huge 25 or 30 foot tree will be erected at the intersection of Twenty-third and Macdonald avenue.

This tree will be trimmed with the usual Christmas ornaments, and electric lights. It will be one of the largest Christmas trees ever erected in this city.

Plans call for a Christmas eve party to be held at the tree for the kiddies.

At that time Christmas candies, fruits and toys will be distributed to the children of the Twenty-third street district.

Merchants east of the subway are banding together for this purpose.

Although down town Richmond is gaily decorated for the Yule season, with living Christmas trees and living trees, decorations in the eastern part of the city are sadly lacking.

As a result, it was decided that a huge Christmas tree would aid a great deal in bringing a Christmas atmosphere to this section of the city.

SENIORS GRADUATE TONIGHT

HOOVER HIT ON RELIEF PLAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—UP—Each house of congress passed bills today embodying major phases of depression and drought relief, and providing for appropriations of $170,000,000, as President Hoover vigorously spoke out against what he called plans for "raids on the treasury" for a possible aggregate of $4,500,000,000. Some he charged, were "playing politics at the expense of human misery."

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Repn., Wis., countered in the senate by introducing a resolution, which may come up tomorrow, to express the sense of the senate that "human suffering in this emergency should take precedence over the consideration of wealthy income-tax payers."

Thus in a spirit of acrimony with Republicans and Democrats both sharply critical of Hoover's restricted relief plans, began the big fight of the winter session. If Hoover loses, a further income tax increase and probably a special session of congress will follow. If he wins, public works will be increased and local communities and the Red Cross will be left to care for any who suffer.

CHINESE GIVES ALIBI IN S. F. MURDER CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 9.—UP—Detectives who had considered their investigation into the death of Mrs. Rosetta Baker, 70, club woman and actress, ended when they placed a charge of murder against Leu Fook aged Chinese servant, had to renew their task when new evidence developed today.

The Chinese prisoner not only denied participation in the crime but offered alibis that sounded plausible to some officers Furthermore authorities were puzzled by the fact that Leu had found the body of his mistress with a bed sheet wrapped tightly around her throat when he went to work in her apartment Monday evening. Never in the history of San Francisco, they said, has a Chinese returned to the scene of a crime he has committed.

GOOD TIMES SEEN BY LOCALS

In spite of the alleged "hard times" in the United States today, business in Richmond is improving and is much better than last Christmas, a check of a number of stores in this city revealed yesterday.

People are buying today, more than they have at any time during the present year, officials of local stores told a representative of the RECORD-HERALD yesterday.

At a Richmond department store, the manager declared: "Business is on a par with last Christmas and it looks like it might even get better.

Prices Cheaper

"Never before have people been able to buy such quality merchandise at such low prices," the official declared. "In our ladies' wear department, for instance, last year one had to pay $1.95 for a pair of silk hose. This year, you can get the same quality of goods for one dollar."

"This is going to be one of the biggest Christmasses in our history," the owner of a men's clothing store declared.

"And it is going to be better [illegible] day runs."

Already [illegible] people are [illegible] more and more, for they have realized the tremendous savings that they can take advantage of. Now prices are 35 percent lower than they were last year. And merchandise is even better."

Yule Spirit

Asked to what he attributes this [illegible] in buying, the official declared. "There are two things that cause this rush in business. The first is the good old Christmas

Each of the 74 diplomas is to be signed by the president of the board along with the superintendent of schools and the principal.

Other matters considered by the board yesterday were of a routine nature.

HIGH CAGERS WIN TWO GAMES

The Richmond Union High school varsity and B cagers yesterday afternoon completely subdued the invading San Rafael High school athletes in two fast games played on the local high school gymnasium floor.

The Richmond varsity succeeded in trouncing the San Rafael heavyweights by a score of 28 to 18.

The local B team handed a 19 to 12 defeat to the San Rafael B quintet.

Both Richmond squads showed a fair margin of superiority over their trans-bay opponents.

The two varsity teams fought hard during the first half without gaining an advantage, the score being tied 11 to 11 at half time. However, the locals increased their pace in the third and fourth periods and succeeded in penetrating the San Rafael defense for fatal hole shots.

The entire Richmond team began to work together better in the final half, and the offense that they showed during that period should come in handy in the remainder of their contests for this week. The Richmond High school defense showed all its usual strength.

The B team of Richmond High held the upper hand during practically all of its tussle with the San Rafael aggregation. The locals were leading 15 to 5 at half time. The third quarter was scarce in scoring, the score being 15 to 7 for Richmond at the beginning of the fourth quarter. However, in that final period both teams again found the basket, and the action grew faster and warmer as the final whistle drew nearer. The Richmond B's, like their heavier fellow athletes, were easily superior to the invaders from Marin county in both their offense and defense.

The Richmond Union High school varsity and B outfits will again have plenty to do on the waxed floor today when they tangle with the John Swett High school athletes of Crockett. The Richmond varsity swamped the Crockett boys 25 to 7 in their first game of the season about a week ago. The Crockett boys will certainly be out for revenge, but it is believed that the Richmond athletes will be able to hold the upper hand over the Carquinians today. The local B's were not quite so lucky in their earlier clash with Crockett and lost to the Crockett lightweights by a 15 to 11 score. They have shown surprising progress and improvement since that time and are generally reckoned upon to meet Crockett on even or more than even terms.

Tomorrow afternoon the Richmond Union High school varsity and B teams go to University High school in Oakland. A large section of rooters is intending to make the trip to the Oakland school's gymnasium tomorrow afternoon to see the locals play their second out-of-town game of the season.

The Richmond Union High school varsity lineup yesterday included: Rollino 6, Marcos 9, forwards; Passone, center; Westman, Drexel, guards; substitutes—Boschetti 3, Masek forwards; Kenney 6, centers; Scarsella 4, Mike Sanfilippo, guards.

The San Rafael varsity consisted of: Morgan 5, Richardson 7, forwards; Cassidy, 4, center; Bottini 1, O'Shaughnessy, guards; substitutes—Morguontini 1, Chong guards.

The Richmond B athletes yesterday were: Santaella 7, Doidge 6, forwards; Wilson 2, center; C. Johnson, Bowles 2, guards; substitutes—Lamb, Collins, forwards; Brandau 2, center; Rogers, Transue, Lutz, guards.

The San Rafael B lightweights were: Cameron 4, Watkins 5, forwards; Sorich 2, center; Egesti, Tony, guards; substitutes— Melquist, Bonahue, Catala, forwards; Evastel 1, center.

Stanford Cage Team Has Few Veterans Left

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 9.—With but six lettermen, only two of whom were regulars last season, returning, John Bunn has gone about the difficult task of installing a new system of basketball at Stanford and at the same time building a quintet which can compete with such formidable teams as Southern California, U. C. L. A., California, St. Ignatius, and Santa Clara.

"Red" Berg, forward; John McCandless, center; and Captain Harlow Rothert, guard, are the regulars lost by graduation. Returning lettermen are: forwards—Vance Fawcett, Bud Hawkins, Don Tyler; center—Jimmie Mears; guards—Captain-elect Mike Reynolds, John Tampcke. Fawcett and Captain Reynolds were regulars last year but the former is being shifted from forward to running guard.

Bunn has tentatively announced a squad of thirty men, twenty of whom will make up a playing squad and ten of whom will be a reserve aggregation. Don Tyler, forward; Phil Moffatt, forward; and Don Colvin, center, from "Pop" Warner's grid team, reported for the first time today and doubtless will be added to the list.

The squad as it now stands includes: guards—Phil Baker, William Bailey, Vance Fawcett, Hubert Fry, Mark Griffin, John Hancock, Ward Loomis, Captain Mike Reynolds, Rudy Rintala, Irwin Tway, Carrol Weaver, Harold Edelen, Ed Woodworth, and John Tampcke; centers—Charles Bonner, Bill Doub, Lester McElwain, Jimmie Mears, Robert Pollhamus, Frank Stewart; forwards—Frank Clough, Tom Cordry, Charles Glasgow, Marcus Godfrey, Bud Hawkins, Virgil Hepp, Buck Kelley, Reggie Meade, Pryne Palmer, and Al Ray.

Eight of these men—Baker, Doub, Edelen, Hancock, Palmer, Rintala, Tray and Tampcke, reported last week after the football season and have not had much chance to display their wares to Bunn. Captain Mike Reynolds is just recovering from an ankle injury sustained this summer and is gradually rounding into good shape.

Chicago Drops Annual U. S. Cage Meeting

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—UP— Permanent discontinuance of the annual University of Chicago National Scholastic Basketball tournament was announced tonight by Director of Athletics A. A. Stagg.

Director Stagg's decision to drop the meet, one of the most colorful pageants of the sports year, followed adoption by university authorities of a recommandation made by a committee of three members of the faculty.

Director Stagg emphasized that the University of Chicago is primarily interested in education and conducts athletics only so far as they are beneficial and wholesome influence. He said the university's action was not influenced by outside pressure. Particularly that of the National Federation of High School Athletic associations, which has long opposed the tourney.

Governor Gives Hints To Hunters

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 9. —UP— Governor Dan Moody, who besides being head of the state government, is one of Texas' best shots, gives this advice for successful duck hunting:

"Choose a cloudy day with little wind. Remember that the duck is a fast flyer. The teal goes at the rate of 120 miles an hour. When you shoot allow for that fast flying."

Governor Moody's advice to choose a hunting day with what aviators would term a "low ceiling" and little wind is approved by other successful gulf hunters.

In clear weather ducks fly high which makes bad shooting. When there is a little wind the surface of the water on which they light to feed is smooth. Flying overhead they can see the edible grasses, wild rice or other morsels. As they swoop down to land on this feeding spot, the hunter has his chance.

Navy Prepares For Contest With Soldiers

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 9.—UP—Looming as a dangerous threat to the Army because of their 26-0 victory over Penn last Saturday, the Navy gridders today opened practice with a light workout for the resumption of the service football classic Saturday at New York for the unemployed fund.

According to Coach Bill Ingram, the Tars have just found themselves after several hard poundings in early season. Before the Penn game the Navy had a three-weeks rest and showed unmistakable signs of freshness by their clean-cut victory over the Quakers.

The Penn game marked the return to form of John Gannon, halfback, who, in 1928, was the best ground gainer for the Middies. That game also uncovered Tom Hurley, a young back who exhibited tremendous driving power in his first big chance.

French Census To Start Soon

PARIS, Dec. 9.—UP— Gaston Doumergue, has decreed that the French census throughout the world will begin on March 8, 1931. It will take President of France two years to complete the census.

Unlike America, France does not gather her population figures by door-to-door canvassing. The authorities in each department, commune and village are given census forms to distribute, trusting to the subjects to fill them out and return them.

Frenchmen believe France's official population figures would probably to much greater if the citizens were canvassed. Because many fail to comply with the request, France's total population is certainly greater than 100,488,643.

France's colonial population, according to the 1925 census, is greater than her continental population. As the majority of the colonies are black or brown-skinned they outnumber the whites. The 1925 census showed France's population divided as follows:

France (continental, counting military forces abroad) 40,938,847; Colonies, 59,549,796.

JOHN GILBERT IN NEW FILM AT FOX

The sometimes humorous, sometime stirring but always dramatic adventures of a group of hard-slacking lotharios in "Way for a Sailor," Metro Goldwyn Mayer talkie which opened today at the Fox-California Theater.

John Gilbert star of the picture and Wallace Beery who portrays his brawny mate on a British freighter undoubtedly give the best performances of their careers in the vivid picturization of Albert Richard Wetjen's well-known sea yarn.

The roles of the carefree, indolent sailors who swagger from one saloon to another leaving broken bottles and overturned tables behind and in the same manner turn from one sweetheart to another leaving broken hearts behind, was made to order for the particular talents of the two popular actors.

Here is a picture that stomps out of drawing rooms, out of cities and pretty parks and shows right out into the middle of the ocean where men go down to the sea in ships and things we landlubbers only read about actually happen. It packs excitement from start to finish. It has you hanging onto your seat for dear life. When the waves began to pound and the old deck lurches, you instinctively lurch with it. It's all too real, thrillingly so, and with a dramatic story glorifying the traditions of the sea. And of wives and sweethearts who stay ashore and wait for their men.

RENEGADE TO BE SHOWN AT FOX

According to Warner Baxter who portrays an ex-officer of the French army in the Foreign Legion under an alias in "Renegade" his latest Fox movietone vehicle, scarcely one out of a thousand Legionnaires is of American extraction. Research proved to him that more than half of the corps' personnel is made up of Germans, while, singularly enough, only seven percent are registered as Frenchmen. Russians Austrians, Hungarians and Danes make up the bulk of the remainder.

Since no investigation is made of enlistment declarations, however these figures are only approximately correct, as a volunteer with a shady past may give any nationality he chooses when applying for service and, on compeltion of his five-year term, obtain French citizenship papers without further question.

In keeping with the accuracy shown throughout the film, "Renegades" boasts only one American character in its cast, played by George Cooper. Noah Beery is seen as a German and Gregory Gaye as a Russian, this trio comprising Baxter's comrades in the exciting narrative. Myrna Loy furnishes the allurement as a dangerous woman spy, and Bela Lugosi plays the role of the Arab Marabout. Victor Fleming directed the picture which comes to the Fox-California Theatre tomorrow.

SEARCH ON FOR SUPER MAN RACE

HERMOSILLO, Sonora, Mex., Dec. 9.—UP—An expedition of American archaeologists seeking traces of prehistoric supermen journeyed into southern Sonora tonight, accompanied by a group of Mexican scientists sent by the governor of Sonora to assist in the anticipated discoveries.

The Americans, led by Dean Byron H. Cumings of the University of Arizona archaeology department, were received officially at the capital of Sonora today before starting for the village of Tonichi near the end of the interior railway line.

Mexicans to Aid

The complete cooperation of the state department was assured Dr. Cummings in a formal interview with Provisional Governor Abelardo Sobarzo, and Angel Arriola, director general of education. Previously the scientists had informally discussed the scientific possibilities of the research with governor Francisco Elias.

Professor Manuel San Domingo, historical and geographical research investigator for Sonora, was placed at the head of the group of Mexican scientists accompanying Dr. Cummings' party. The Arizona savant regarded this as an indication of the importance attached to the expedition by Mexican authorities.

The little train bearing the scientists through a veritable wilderness in the heart of Sonora was due in Tonichi late tonight. They will leave by automobile tomorrow for Soyopa, the last settlement on the route to where the fossilized remains of three giant skeletons have been found, and where the present excavations will be centered.

The presence of Mexican authorities augured well for the safety of the party, whose members had taken the precaution to travel incognito as a means of avoiding trouble with the war-like Yaquis who inhabit the district surrounding the excavation site.

Found Bones

J. L. Coker, the American mining operator who first came upon the three skeletons—all more than eight feet tall—conferred with the Mexican scientists during the journey as to the location of the remains and the possibilities of finding others in the vicinity. He said the skeletons evidently were only one of many groups buried there for uncounted centuries in a prehistoric cemetery. The Yaqui river flows nearby.

The possibility of continuing the expedition to search for other giant skeletons reported found several miles from the Coker discoveries had not been considered tonight. C. H. Smith, a mining engineer informed Dr. Cummings just before the expedition started that he had found seven huge skeletons buried in a cave.

At Richmond

THRILL SCENES IN FILM AT RICHMOND

It was a simple matter for most of the company to dodge stunt-flying airplanes during the making of "The Dawn Patrol," the First National Vitaphone production starring Richard Barthelmess at the Richmond Theater tonight

But for the cameramen—Ernest Haller and his battery of cameras—it was one that meant something like being buried alive. For nowadays in the era of talkies these necessary adjuncts of motion picture making are housed in soundproof vaults from which it is not so easy to escape in case of danger.

"When we heard the zooming of the motor and knew that the plane was swooping towards the earth at the rate of 200 miles per hour," said Haller, "we knew there was no use in running for by the time we got out of the camera booth it would be all over with us."

"The Dawn Patrol" is a thrilling drama of the British flying corps during the early years of the World War. It offers Barthelmess the most dramatic role of his career and he is supported by such a superlative cast as Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Neil Hamilton, Clyde Cook, Gardner James, Frank McHugh, James Finlayson William Janney, Edmund Breon and others. The story is based on an original by John Monk Saunders and directed by Howard Hawks who is himself a flyer of note.

RICARD RITES TO BE HELD THURSDAY

SANTA CLARA UNIVERSITY, Dec. 9.—UP—Funeral services for Father Jerome Sixtus Ricard, kindly and beloved 'Padre of the Rains' who died yesterday after a lingering heart ailment, will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, from the Mission church on the campus of the university he served for 53 years.

Interment will be at the Jesuit cemetery nearby. The body will lie in state in the mission until the time for the funeral services.

All municipal courts in San Francisco adjourned today in honor of the priest's memory. Messages of condolence and expressions of heartfelt sorrow poured into the university all day today, from friends and admirers of Father Ricard in the worlds of both science and religion.

Intimate revelations of Father Ricard were passed about today by his associates who worked with him in the laboratory and classroom.

The astronomer-priest, whose "sunspot theory" of weather prediction gained him international recognition, was known as a physicist and mathematician as well.

He was a kindly man, who dearly loved a jest.

He was a staunch opponent of prohibition. Born in France, he knew and loved the rare wines that were "brother to the daily bread." His vigor in denouncing fanatical enforcement of prohibition astonished those who did not know the fires of spirit that characterized the aged priest.

Father Ricard was born in Plaisans, France. He came to Santa Clara in 1887, and was almost constantly associated with the university until the day of his death.

He was 80 years old at the time of his death. He would have celebrated his 81st birthday on January 21.

Death came at 9:10 p. m. Father Joseph M. Georgen and Brother Anthony, of the university, were with him at the last.

Death came during sleep, after Father Georgen had administered extreme unction.

MEMPHIS, Mich.—Descendants of Araunah and Abigail Gilbert, first settlers of this city, gathered here recently to commemorate the founding of the city 100 years ago. A tablet was unveiled honoring the memory of the first settlers.

Boys Charged With Murder In Party Death

GARY, Ind., Dec. 9, —UP— A grand jury charged five prominent Gary youths with murder today in connection with the gin party death last week of Arlene Draves, 18, recent high school graduate.

The indictment accused the defendants specifically of murder by beating with a blunt instrument, murder by perpetrating an attack and murder by atempting to attack.

The grand jury also recommended that Clarence and Guy Johnson, alleged bootleggers charged with selling a gallon of alcohol to David Thompson, host at the party, be held as material witnesses under $2,000 bonds.

The defendants, held in jail without bond, include Thompson, Leon Stanford, Paul Barton, Henry Shirk and Virgil Kirkland.

Kirkland escorted Miss Draves to the party. Police obtained from him later a confession that he and his companions all in drunken stupors, attacked Miss Draves shortly before she died.

Defense attorneys indicated they would attempt to prove bootleg gin and not the boys responsible for the tragedy.

Woman Flier Makes Record

WICHITA, Kans., Dec. 9.—UP—After a record-breaking hop from Burbank, Miss Ruth Nichols landed her Lockheed plane on Municipal airport here late today.

She set her ship down at 4:01:12. She gave her take-off time as 6:59:12 PCT.

Miss Nichols, who recently established an east to west record of little more than 16 hours, is far ahead of all women's marks for the western lap of the continental flight. Her mark has been eclipsed in the men's division only by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Captain Frank Hawks.

Bugs Moran On Trial In Court

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Dec. 9.—UP—George "Bugs" Moran, looking greatly bored, went on trial today before County Judge Perry L. Persons on a charge of vagrancy.

While the erstwhile north side Chicago gang leader sat with hands folded in his lap, his attorneys argued strenuously that the court had no jurisdiction in a vagrancy case. This the judge overruled and selection of a jury to try the notorious gunman was started.

Alimony Pay Settled By Divorced Pair

RENO, Nev., Dec. 9.—UP—A divorce was granted to Margaret Ripley Scott from Thomas Blythe Scott, Jr., prominent New York stock broker, on grounds of mental cruelty, here today.

Custody of Adele Scott, three-years old was awarded to the mother.

An unusual agreement in regards to alimony was reached by the couple out of court. It provides that Mrs. Scott shall receive $800 a month for herself and her daughter provided her divorced husband's income remains above $19,000 a year. If the income falls below that figure the alimony will drop proportionately but should it mount above $30,000 annually this process would be reversed.

The Scotts were members of the society colony at Woodmere, Long Island.

Other divorces granted today included:

Viola Pink from Reginald Pink of New York; Charles O. Nichols of Deadwood, South Dakota, from Marie J. Nichols; James E. Cabell of Huntington, West Virginia, from Hodges Cabell; May Edison from Samuel George Edison of Bronx, New York, and Bessie K. Mahler from John H. Mahler of Bronx, New York.

New Trial For Woman Asked

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 9.—UP—Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin's last possessions, her clothes and her trunk were taken from her today after her conviction of first degree murder.

Mrs. O'Loughlin was found guilty by a jury in district court last night on a charge of killing her stepdaughter, Leona, 10, with ground glass, two blows on the head with a tire iron, and drowning in Berkeley Park lake.

She donned a pink flowered frock with ruffles around the bottom and took her place, smiling, with other women prisoners in the jail today.

She was too busy with the jail chores—dusting and sweeping—to grant interviews with newspapermen. She has betrayed no emotion since the verdict was returned, fixing the penalty at life imprisonment.

Her attorneys, John M. Keating and J. W. Shireman, have filed a motion for a new trial. In case this is denied, they announced they would appeal to the state supreme court.

Prison Made Grain Bag Prices Slashed

SAN QUENTIN, Dec. 9 —UP—The state board of prison directors has reduced the price of grain bags made by prisoners of California to seven cents, it was announced here tonight.

There has been a charge of eight cents but the state has been able to buy cheaper jute and cost of production has therefore been lessened. There are 5,000,000 of these sacks on hand at present, it was said.

Destruction Of Huge Still Asked

MARTINEZ, Dec. 9.—Petition for the sale of certain portions and destruction of other parts of the $35,000 still seized by county operatives on the Knightsen ranch some time ago was made to the superior court here today by A. B. Tinning, district attorney.

Funds realized from the sale will be turned into the county treasury

French Bid For Ocean Travel In Fleet Building

PARIS, Dec. 9.—UP—The efforts of French shipbuilders to wrest ocean passenger service honors from British and German rivals are producing an impressive fleet of luxurious liners from the greatest shipyards of the nation.

No less than nine major-sized vessels are now nearing completion while several smaller but transoceanic craft are also under construction.

The 21,000 ton liner "George Philippar," just completed at Saint Nazaire for the Messageries Maritimes, designed for speed and luxury to and from the Far-East, has just been launched.

21,000 Ton Ship

It is of the type of the "Felix Roussel," likewise completed in the Saint Nazair yards, and which slid down the ways 24 hours after the "George Philippar."

A third liner, also of the same type as the above-mentioned, is the "Aramis," under construction in the Saint Nazaire yards. It will be launched in 1931. These three vessels, equipped with Diesel motors, will ply from European ports to the shores of the China Sea.

In Mediterranean shipyards, at Ciotat, near Marseilles, two more smaller liners are being constructed for the same company: the "Marshal Joffre" and the "Jean Laborde," both destined for service to and from Madagascar.

N. Y. Liner

The cabin liner "Champlain," nearly completed at Saint Nazaire for the French Line, will be of the same type as the "Lafayette" and be on the New York run. It will be launched next year.

The South Atlantic Steamship company, better known as the French as "Chargeurs Reunis," recently announced the completion of the ultra-luxurious and speedy "Atlantique," to be launched early in 1931. It will be used between Europe and South America.

The Paquet company will launch two steam-turbined liners, the "Djenne" and the "Koutoubia" during 1931. Both will serve the West African coast as far south as Senegal.

Partner Slain, Man Kills Self

OAKLAND, Dec. 9.—UP-Screams of protests from his daughter and a dozen diners failed to prevent William Orsilini, 51, from killing his partner, Harry Theodore, 35, in the cafe they jointly owned and then committed suicide here tonight.

The daughter, Helen, 17, was a waitress in the restaurant.

She said that her father had become convinced that Theodore was plotting to defraud him by selling the restaurant for less than it was worth or taking all the money from the sale.

"Father became suspicious and worried," she said. "His suspicions preyed on his mind so that he could not sleep."

Orsilini fired the bullet through his partner's head without warning and killed himself before he could be disarmed.

Miss Frederick Asks Annulment

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—UP—The fourth marriage of Pauline Frederick, stage and screen actress, reached the courts today when a suit for annulment was brought by Hugh Chisholm Leighton, president of the Interstate Hotel company.

The complaint charged fraud and asserts that when Miss Frederick entered into the ceremony she had no intention of consummating the marriage.

Leighton was reported ill in the Beverly Hills hotel. Miss Frederick is in the Pacific northwest with a road show. They were married last April.

LIONS HEAR TALK ON MUNICIPAL BAND

Richmond Lions heard the history of Richmond's concert band told them yesterday by A. A. Hart, director and one of the charter members.

Today the band stand, music and instruments owned by the band members bring the total assets to the $8000 mark.

W. S. Darrell, manager of the band was chairman of the meeting. Music was given by the Lions club orchestra.

Thirteen members of the club will participate in the living Christmas tree drive being conducted by the organization. All of these men will have living trees at their homes.

Four Lions club Boy Scout troop members were awarded handkerchiefs indicative of their ranks following their receiving of awards this week. The boys are: Donald Bignall, Harold Tomlinson, Walter Anderson and Richard Brunjes.

Next meeting day is bundle day the members were told by Dr. George Boehmer, chairman of the event. Members will bring anything that may be used for aiding the poor this year.

H. H. Mylander reported on the meeting last week of Golden Gate council where he presided as vice president.

NEW ALPS BORE PLAN ALARMS FRANCE

PARIS.—France is more than mildly perturbed by the reopening of the question of boring another railway through the Alps to link Milan directly with Munich.

It would establish easy access between Italy and Germany thru the Stelvio pass, but is a gigantic task necessitating the building of three tunnels, ten, eight and five miles long, a ten-year undertaking costing 2,000,000000 lire.

Military Values

The French military leaders and government cannot see the commercial value of such a railway, but admit that it would be rich in military balance of Europe.

Only 100 miles shorter than the present line through the Gotthard the new railway would have the advantage of dodging Switzerland and would be under German, Austrian and Italian control.

In view of Italy's quarrels with France and her friendly overtures to the other members of the once Holy Alliance, the project does take on more than a commercial aspect.

The completion of the Stevio cut-off would give Germany and Italy three main lines of communication—Stelvio, Gotthard and via Trieste and Salzbourg.

The projected line would then cut across the narrow strip of Austrian Tyrol and link up with the German state railways at Mittenwald.

The Stelvio pass is in the Rhetique Alps at the junction of the Swiss, Italian and Tyrolian frontiers. Most of the tunneling will be in Italian territory, and the project will be an Italo-German undertaking with Italy furnishing most of the labor and materials.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

A SORRY STORY FOR WOMEN

WHAT New York woman of intelligence has not grown sick at heart, reading the revelations, more sordid daily, of what has gone on against the peace and self-respect and bodily safety of women in the Women's Court of this city?

Here, where women have thought themselves possessors of the broadest freedom, the richest opportunity, the most secure right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness"—here, it is now shown perfectly innocent but obscure, friendless, terrified girls have been arrested and blackmailed and even railroaded to prison, their reputations unjustly but hopelessly besmirched, without a hand raised to aid them.

Here women who ply an anti-social profession—known, nevertheless, as "the oldest profession in the world"—are entrapped and exploited deliberately, for the basest motives of gain, by the supposed guardians and protectors of all women in the community—men whose baseness makes the sin of the scarlet sister seem virtuous by comparison.

Money extorted from unfortunate women, it has been shown by Isidor Kresel, special counsel in the Seabury hearing, goes its slimy way to stool pigeon, to policeman, to bondsman, to lawyer, to prosecutor, to the very heart of our courtrooms. Men all along the line have not hesitated to take their profit from this vilest of rackets. Men who had mothers, perhaps wives and daughters, stooped without wincing to pick up this shame-money from the sex that brought them, with agony, into the world.

Until these revelations were made public, hardly a woman in New York so scorned men that she would have believed such things true of an ever-widening group of her male fellow citizens.

IT IS a sorry story for women to read. It is a story bound to inspire in women a bitterness toward men, a feeling of sex-antagonism which is not natural to womankind, no matter how "modern," how interested in votes and latch keys and pay envelopes and other insignia of feminism.

The thing for women to do, we think, is not to spend too much time and energy in fuming and raging against "the rotten men responsible for all this." After all, they are not many in number. After all, decent men, of whom there ARE many, feel a scorn as withering as any woman's for these male degenerates who profiteer in feminine misfortune and weakness.

What both women and men have to do is to be more active good citizens, to inquire more diligently into the way their city runs its courts and its police department, to hold to a stricter responsibility the officers of the city government.

What is especially a task for women is to reform their own point of view toward the more luckless members of their sex, to be less ruthless in their attitude toward all who are even suspected of offense.

If the social penalty for misdoing of a certain sort were less severe, an innocent girl, unjustly accused, would have more courage to fight the besmirchers of her good name.

Let women stand by women ever more loyally. Then the things men have done to girl victims in the Women's Court, men can never do again.

REFLECTED GLORY

I never will be just myself—the reason's plain to see:
The world has never had a chance to know the real me.

When I was just a little girl, no matter what I did
Was praised too much, or blamed too hard—"she's Dr. Ryan's kid!"

At quite an early age my sister showed that she was bright,
Her fame spread far and wide, of course, when she began to write.

Again I found that I, as I, did not mean very much:
"This is Miss Ryan's sister"—I was introduced as such.

In time to come, I married, and I bore two children fine;
I thought, "My personality at last is surely mine!"

A fond delusion and a snare! My daughter learned to sing;
"She's Sally Baker's mother," in my ears began to ring.

The final and the hardest blow came shortly after that:
My Bobby is a terror—I'm "the mother of that brat."

ESTHER L. SCHWARTZ.

GOOD FOR THE GRANDMAS!

A fifty-one-year-old New York grandma, Mrs. H. Foster Bain, has just obtained a private pilot's license to fly an airplane, for which she asked because she felt she needed a hobby. But our pet grandma in the news is Mrs. Emma McMahon of Kansas City, who at the age of one hundred and nine went to work as usual in a quilting factory.

PHILANDERER

My fancy's such a fickle thing,
It's fun to watch it flit—
I like Ted for his intellect
And Tom just for his wit.

I like the way Bill wears his clothes
I'm wild about Bob's ties,
And Jack, whenever I write verse,
Can write such apt replies!

I just adore the comradeship,
Of Al when on a hike—
In fact, there's something in each one
That I confess I like.

But fancy's such a fickle thing,
It never stops to rest,
So how in heaven can I tell
Which one I like the best?

THE STRONGER SEX

Mrs. Anna Kondrup, about 5 feet 3 inches in height, brought a burglar into a New York police station, the other day, hauling him along by the collar. "Afraid? Huh, he's not so big!" quoth she.

TELLING THE WORLD

ALL SET FOR THE WINTER

"WELL," said Mr. Jebb to his garage man, "I have just put the storm windows on my house, bought a new snow shovel and had fresh gratings installed in the heater. I guess I'm all set for the winter."

"Yeah?" replied Mr. Mealey, the garage man. "How about your car?"

"Oh, I've changed to lighter oil already," boasted Mr. Jebb. "I'm all set on that, too."

"Of course you put the anti-freeze mixture in your radiator, too," observed Mr. Mealey.

"Sure. And I ran water from the hose with the drain cock open to clean the radiator before I put in the anti-freeze."

"Running a hose through her is about as effective as sticking a latch key into a lock of the Panama Canal," said Mr. Mealey. "Do you realize the stuff that's in your radiator? I mean rust, scale, sludge, particles of rubber from worn hose, impurities from the water, grease from the pump and probably a lot of old garbage and a couple of horseshoes as well. You ain't ready for winter till you've had all that muck sucked out with compressed air."

"Is that a fact?" said Mr. Jebb.

"You ought to have new spark plugs, too," continued the garage man. "Old and wornout spark plugs cause poor starting, an excessive drain on the battery, fuel waste, loss of power and sometimes a touch of lumbago and pleurisy."

"I never realized that before," said Mr. Jebb.

"Then you take a quick cold snap," went on Mr. Mealey, "and what about the condition of your starter, generator, the wiring among chafing and loose connections, the ammeter, circuit breaker, distributor, coil, ignition, lighting, switches, horn, spotlights, distributor heads, battery terminals, cigars, chewing gum and lemon drops? Winter just raises ructions with those."

"Yes, I suppose you're right," conceded Mr. Jebb.

"And another thing, now that winter is on us," Mr. Mealey continued, "when was the last time your transmission and differential was flushed out and refilled? Ordinary grease stiffens with the first touch of cold weather. And stiffened grease causes damaging wear on gears, shifts and bearings, with consequent gear noises, rear end hums, falling of the arches and buzzing in the ears."

"Is that so?" said Mr. Jebb, a trifle apprehensive.

"It sure is," answered Mr. Mealey. "And if I was you, before I got stuck in some snowdrift, I'd have my crankcase flushed out and refilled and I'd apply grease or oil to all fittings, external brake connections, fan, clutch bearing and steering connections. Of course, if you've done all those things already, you're fairly well set for winter."

"To tell the truth, I never thought of it at all," said Mr. Jebb.

"Then you need to clean your gasoline system, blow out the fuel line, drain the tank, strain the gas for foreign substances, clean the screens and strainers and adjust the carburetor," said Mr. Nealey.

"Would all those things fix up my car to withstand the winter weather?" inquired Mr. Jebb.

"Those and a few odd jobs more," said Mr. Mealey, "such as synchronizing the brake shoes, checking the brake drums for bent mechanisms, adjusting the"——

"You needn't mention any more," said Mr. Jebb. "I think I'll go right home and store the car for the winter, close up the house, go to Florida and just use taxicabs. And thanks for your advice, Mr. Mealey—I'll be seeing you in the spring."

THIS AND THAT

Columbia University experts have just discovered an infant laughs only to attract attention. It also does pretty well in that line when it cries.

Admiral Byrd's new book is out. He might have made it a companion volume of Lindy's "We" by calling it "u. s." instead of "Little America."

Mayor Mackey appointed a commission to abolish noise in Philadelphia. Some of the natives must have started to snore.

And they probably made them throw in the valley for good measure.

When the sale of the Scotch mountain was recorded, it would have helped business if they'd mentioned the peak price.

WELL, AS ONE APPLE TO ANOTHER, I NEVER EXPECTED TO FIND MYSELF BEING SOLD TO HELP THE UNEMPLOYED
STILL IT'S A SERVICE OF WHICH MY ILLUSTRIOUS ANCESTORS WOULD BE JUSTLY PROUD.
ANCESTORS! WHAT DID YOUR FAMILY EVER DO?
YOUR IGNORANCE IS REFRESHING, MY FRIEND. MAY I INFORM YOU THAT IT WAS ONE OF MY FOREFATHERS THAT EVE GAVE ADAM IN THE GARDEN OF EDEN.
THAT'S LITTLE TO BOAST ABOUT!
IT MAY FURTHER INTEREST YOU TO KNOW THAT IT WAS A BLOOD RELATIVE OF MINE THAT WAS PRESENTED TO HELEN OF TROY AS A PRIZE FOR HER GREAT BEAUTY.
HEAR! HEAR!
AND IT PROBABLY WOULD BE A WASTE OF WORDS TO TELL ONE OF YOUR MEDIOCRE MENTALITY THAT IT WAS ONE OF MY FOREBEARS THAT FELL ON ISAAC NEWTON'S HEAD AS HE RESTED UNDER OUR FAMILY TREE.
WASN'T IT YOUR BROTHER THAT WAS BROUGHT BACK THIS MORNING BECAUSE THERE WAS A WORM IN HIM?
WOULD IT THRILL YOU TO HEAR THAT I AM A DIRECT DESCENDANT OF THE APPLE THAT WILLIAM TELL SHOT FROM HIS LITTLE BOY'S HEAD.
YOUR MODESTY IS AMAZING!
SO YOU'RE SOLD, EH? WELL, SO LONG, CHARLIE, I HOPE YOU DONT GIVE THE GENTLEMAN INDIGESTION!

Back Views Focus Evening Interest

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

DRESS OF BLACK SATIN WITH A NEW BACK TREATMENT

BACK views are better and better—not only the backs themselves for they are living up smartly to their stylized surroundings, but the backs of the dresses, too. They have concentrated all of the novelty of a new season—that is as far as evening clothes are concerned.

I am talking now about evening dresses in the very latest mold—those only just landed from Paris—the greatest successes from the midseason openings.

For period! Well, if you must know, they smack of the gay nineties, or they border on that period, being the sort of thing that was worn from 1880 up to 1890. There are bustles and bows—ruffles at the back—every device to send the back of the skirt up perkily toward the waistline and over the hips.

A New Silhouette

THERE is a suggestion of a new silhouette, as you will see at a glance from the sketches here. Still the lines of the natural figure are important and not the least bit clouded. But the 1880 decoration is there also and, artistically employed, it adds a large portion of charm. It is the sort of thing, of course, you know, that can be shamelessly overdone.

So, watch your step in this revived era and tread only where you know the style treading is safe.

The new neckline exaggeratedly low in the back, sometimes has straps over the shoulders, and those straps are wider than they have been for some time. They really seem like integral parts of the dress rather than mere strings to keep the garment from falling off altogether.

Then the necklines at back have some sort of softness of trimming—a draping or a fold or a bow or a flower or even some sort of a jeweled ornament. The plain bound line is not the one that will be dancing away from you at spring parties. It will be a more decorated one than you have been accustomed to see all winter long.

Sleeves Suggested

YOU will see plenty of little cap sleeves on the very new dresses. Of course they are merely hints at sleeves, but they help to make that shoulder line more of a design than it has been.

I have seen one dress that has just three or four flat petals over the top of the shoulder to make a suggestion of a sleeve. And, then, these petals laid flatly one on top of the other make an edging for the neckline all the way around. They are made of the dress's own material and simply rolled for a finish.

Taffeta being a material that is usually born anew in the spring is bursting forth now with many ruffles, in which guise it always does its best. See, for example, the sketch on this page where the ruffles run up in the back in that 1880 line. It's a very feminine looking thing and flattering, too, when the figure is slim enough to bear it.

Colors and Fabrics

IF YOU are to stay in town after Christmas then no doubt plain toned chiffons and taffetas will be your choice of fabrics, but if you are going South then you will want to use the ideas that I have given you in the lovely summery prints of silk and chiffon which are blooming now in even more beautiful varieties than they have ever been seen in before. But those summer chiffon dresses are a delight when you are living in an environment where you can wear them effectively and you can never have too many to let their charm wear out.

The watery looking pastels are awfully good for colors, blues and greens so washed out that they might almost be taken for dirty white. Vionnet who really made the use of them prominent, christened them "sad" pastels and that they are, with the subtle power to flatter whoever wears them.

As for the rest, Premet is pushing a deep pink, what we know as a real "nigger" pink. Lelong fancies a yellow pink.

But the biggest color for evening will probably be beige, the spring tones that we had a few years ago and loved so well, also a gray beige which is hard to describe but lovely to see.

Don't forget yellow. It is very important among spring colors for evening wear as well as for daytime

Fashion Demands Beautiful Elbows

YOU know, complete sleevelessness does not attract nearly so much attention to the elbows as does the present mode for sleevelets, especially those adorable fur-bordered sleevelets. They are simply enchanting on arms that receive a reasonable amount of intelligent care. But they are mightily unkind to starved and worn out elbows.

We have oftened wondered why there is such a scarcity of alluring elbows in the world. It must be because this part of the arm is never seen by the owner. And yet, scraggly, discolored elbows are simply ruinous to the effectiveness of otherwise white and beautifully rounded arms. What is more, they detract seriously from the elegance of an ensemble.

Perhaps the quickest and best way to restore unsightly elbows to a state of infantile softness and pinkness and dimpledness is to immerse them in a bath of arm olive oil. But first give them a thorough scrub down with warm water and pure castile or olive oil soap.

By the way, elbows, like fingernails, should always be scrubbed with a brush. Neither the hands alone nor a wash cloth can get down into the little crevices, neglect of which makes so many elbows the unlovely things they are.

Occasionally, substitute for the soap and water cleansing a kindly scouring with ready prepared almond meal or some other mealy washing preparation. And if you want to be extra nice to your elbows and do some quick beautifying, you will follow the cleaning operation with a firm but gentle massage.

Lubricate the skin with a rich nourishing cream or "skin food" and let it remain on for at least twenty minutes before removing with a softening hand lotion. Better still, give the little elbow treatment at night and let the nourishing cream sink in over night, using the hand lotion in the morning.

If you have any such bad and unbeautifying habit as leaning on your elbows, do correct it. Once we knew a lady whose purply, pruny elbows were a source of real distress to her. And so she olive-oil bathed them and skinfed them and almond-mealed them, and, oh, just everything. But withal she went right on sitting or three meals a day on her elbows and playing cards most of her afternoons and a great many of her evenings, on her elbows. And naturally there was no miraculous improvement in their appearance.

Not a specially pretty habit this one of resting on the elbows, is it? Why do it then, especially since it is unbeautifying besides?

Kitchen Helps

Always wash the breadboard with cold water and soap to retain a good color, and if it should be discolored add a little silver sand to the soap.

Olive oil will not become rancid if kept in a bottle or glass jar and loaf sugar added—allowing two lumps of the sugar to one quart of oil.

Arranging a Bag Shower

THERE seems to be a bag for every purpose in the home, so a bag shower would be quite acceptable to a prospective bride.

Decorations at showers are usually confined to the table. On center of table have a bag fashioned of crepe paper. Fill this with sand or paper bits to make it stand upright and place flowers in the sand—sweetheart roses would be pretty. Have the bag set on a fluffy frill base. On the stem of each rose have a slip of paper bearing a wish for the prospective bride written by each guest. The nuts or candies may be served in small bags.

For the place cards have small fancy sachet bags tied with ribbon and tiny rosebuds to which attach the card.

The lady at the head of the table will not suspect the bags on the table have any personal significance until at the end of the luncheon the hostess carries the bag of flowers on the table to her and tells her to select a flower. She will discover the slip of paper on the stem and at that moment the guests toss their concealed bags of rose petal confetti at her—rose buds may be used instead of confetti if preferred. The bag of flowers is placed before the surprised guest of honor and she reads aloud each message as she picks the flower.

When she finishes reading there is a rap at the door and a man's voice announces, "Laundry for Miss ——." The hostess receives the bag and presents it to the astonished bride-to-be. It proves to be a laundry bag that is one of the shower gifts and it contains bags, fancy and practical, for various purposes.

There are so many bags that only a partial list can be given One in outline embroidery is for clothes pins, another with a bewitching doll's head is for handkerchiefs, a small shirt proves to be for soiled collars. Others are for the umbiella, the dress, shoes, hat, evening slippers, furs, blankets, bathing accessories, toilet articles, embroidery, buttons, Then there are shopping bags and those of mesh fabrics for delicate laundry and the refrigerator bags for lettuce, etc.

A Sewing Machine Hint

If the machine belt becomes loose put a few drops of castor oil on it and run the machine a few minutes; this will tighten the belt. In case you must shorten the belt, punch a new hole in the belt with a large needle or pin that is redhot.

CHINESE GIVES ALIBI IN S. F. MURDER

der because a tiny piece of skin found near the body of Mrs. Baker was said by criminologists to be from an Oriental and it matched perfectly over a torn place on Leu's hand. The houseboy replied that he had cut the hand last Saturday while washing a broken window and Mrs. Ray Dix, housekeeper at the exclusive Nob Hill apartment owned by Mrs. Baker, said Leu had told her about it at the time. Mrs. Dix went on to explain that Leu's face had been scratched by chairs he was moving over the week-end.

Police had announced that revenge was the motive for the killing, saying they had information that the Chinese houseboy had resented a dismissal by Mrs. Baker although he was later given his job back. They were advised today that Leu had quit of his own accord, expressing a dislike for acting as cook for Walter Middleton, 26, an actor who frequently dined with Mrs. Baker and who was her escort the night before she was killed.

Therefore, in order to complete their chain of circumstantial evidence, detectives hurried to Chinatown to search for a beaded bag and two rings believed to have been stolen from Mrs. Baker by her assailant.

"Look for whoever has the beaded bag," Leu said. "Find the purse and you'll find the murderer."

Farm Chief To Pay Visit To California

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 8. — New impetus to an already aggressive program of market news service maintained by the state department of agriculture was forecast today as the result of the impending California visit of Nils A. Olsen, chief of the federal bureau of agricultural economics.

Olsen will confer with State Director G. H. Hecke and also will discuss federal marketing acts for the benefit of growers and produce merchants at the fruit growers and farmers convention in Los Angeles, December 17, 18 and 19.

Olsen has charge of federal market news activities, and it is by means of cooperative agreement between his bureau and the state department that California growers are given daily, up to the minute coverage on price, quantity, condition and other data entering into the intelligent marketing of crops.

Federal leased wires carrying national and international reports supplement the radio market news service maintained by the state department which now is operating six short wave stations for telegraphic dissemination of market news reports. This state service has developed rapidly since the cooperative agreement with the federal government was negotiated by Director Hecke two years ago. Further developments to broaden the service and make it more valuable to growers are expected as a result of Olsen's conference with Hecke.

One of the chief subjects Olsen will discuss at the convention will be the federal perishable agricultural commodities act now in force. This act, according to an interpretation from Washington includes California canners and evaporators of fruits and vegetables who buy fresh produce in carload lots and sell processed commodities outside of the state. The time limit for securing a license for operating under the act expired December 10.

New County Building Told

MARTINEZ, Dec. 9.—Construction of a hall of records here was the chief topic for discussion at a special session of the board of supervisors today.

Arrangements of the offices in the proposed building which is to be constructed under a three year tax program, design of the edifice and other details were the main topics for discussion.

An architect for the work is expected to be retained as soon as the levy for the work is completed.

Pair Arrested With $250,000 Loot In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—UP—The arrest of two men said to have posed in the film colony as being wealthy and acting once in a while for the fun of it, led to recovery today of jewels and Oriental rugs said to be worth $250,000.

The two, Roxon Sanders, known in Hollywood as Al White, and Peter Ryan, alias Paul Hackley, were said to have raided numerous homes of wealthy Hollywood and Beverly Hills residents in the last year and a half.

Police said Sanders had strapped to his knee a chamois bag containing $20000 in unmounted diamonds. Oother alleged loot was found in the apartments of the two men and in a garage. Police said that Sanders posed as a wealthy importer and learned when rich families would be away from home. He and Ryan would dress as moving van employes, loot a house and then Sanders would take orders for the stolen goods in his role of importer.

Suspect Held In Filipino Bombing

IMPERIAL, Dec. 9.—UP—A discharged tractor driver said to have resented the employment of Filipino labor in this vicinity, was held in the county jail tonight, accused of a bombing which took the life of one Filipino and caused injury to three others.

The suspect, A. L. Hodges, 26, was discharged as a tractor driver for the Imperial Irrigation District several weeks ago after three years residence here. He blamed the widespread employment of Filipinos, it was said.

Several thousand Filipinos have come here in the last few weeks to work in the lettuce harvest. A number of disturbances have occurred. In the blase, which occurred in a dormitory, Ariston E. Lentky, 20, was killed, Jose Paviona may die. Pedro Norbean lost an arm. A fourth was given first aid. Sheriff C. L. Gillett said he had evidence that Hodges purchased explosives in an El Centro store yesterday.

Torture Victim Reported Better

MARTINEZ, Dec. 9.—Hope that the left hand of Dennis Pendergast, found on the John Marchbank farm bound to the bed yesterday after being beaten and robbed of $50 by two men, could be saved was expressed by attendants at the Oakland hospital where the man is a potient, tonight.

Pendergast was found in his bunk house on the farm where he is employed as a horse trainer, by the foreman who went to see why he had not come to work.

The men beat him when he had only $50 for them upon the presumption that he had more money cached about the room. Sheriff's deputies had no clue that linked definitely any suspect to the crime.

Los Angeles Bank Robbed Ot $1000

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—UP—A bandit who entered the Walnut Park branch of the Bank of America while an accomplice waited outside with pistol drawn escaped with approximately $1000 late today.

The smaller of the two entered the bank covered three employes with a pistol and pointed to his companion outside warning that "if there is any monkey business he'll finish you." He then took $1000 from a teller's cage and the two bandits fled in an automobile.

PROTECTION OF CHILDREN TOLD

A warning to Richmond parents that their children should be given immunization treatment against diptheria and small pox was made yesterday by Dr. C. R. Blake of the city health department.

In the communication forwarded by the city health department, it said:

"Children should be vaccinated against smallpox before they are a year old. At this age, they have not begun to run around and are in no danger of knocking into it and they are rendered immune practically from the start. On entering school, they should be vaccinated again as the first vaccination may require enforcement of the immunity in many individuals to make certain of protection. Fortunately, if the child already has immunity, the new vaccination will not take, there will be merely a little red spot developing for about a day, which is known as the 'immune ereaction.'

"We can now state that diptheria is an entirely preventable disease. Diphtheria antitoxin has enormously diminished the death rate among those attacked by the disease. It is an almost certain cure if given early during the attack but there occurs altogether too frequently some delay in its administration, so that its beneficial effects are not realized. This may be due to negligence on the part of the parents or hesitation on the part of the doctor but the child patient too often pays for it with its life.

"Carriers are those people who, without being sick, carry about the germs of diphtheria in their throats or noses and innocently distribute them among persons with whom they come in contact. Consequently, there was something new needed in the fight against diphtheria. This was found in the toxin-antitoxin mixture, which seems to be capable for immunizing for many years those who have taken it, possibly for the remainder of their lives. It cannot be too strongly recommended to parents that they have their children immunized against diphtheria by this means. It is believed possible in this way not only to check the prevalence of diphtheria but eventually to eradicate it completely. Naturally, this should be done at an early age and before the child goes to school the pre school age is the period of greatest danger from diphtheria and it is advised that the injections be given as soon after the age of nine months as possible.

"Besides diphtheria and smallpox, there are several others against which it is possible to immunize children. Scarlet fever is today so mild among us that health authorities seldom recommend wholesale immunization against it. Its chief value is in institutions where the disease has been introduced.

"In the case of measles, it is not advised that all children be immunized except possibly in a family where the disease has occurred.

"Typhoid fever is now so well guarded against in our cities that it would be wasteful and unnecessary for everyone to take typhoid vaccine. It is excellent protection for persons who are to travel in places where sanitation is not well developed.

"In rabies or hydrophobia, children who have been exposed to the bites of mad dogs should consult a doctor as to the advisability of having the Pasteur treatment administered.

"Health officials are so convinced of the need for universal immunization against smallpox and diphtheria, that they are doing everything available and facilities are extended by most health officers for the immunization of those who for one reason or another do not consult a private physician for such services.

Yule Trees Are Placed On Avenue

Living Christmas trees, six to the block, were decorating Macdonald avenue today following their installation by merchants of the city.

The trees were growing in sod held by red painted boxes. During the time they are on the avenue they will be watered and kept green each day. After the holiday season they will be returned to the city nursery where they will be kept for the same use next Christmas.

Christmas trees placed on trolly poles along the avenue strung with lights, also adds to the Christmas appearance. These decorations along with the increased candlepower of the electroliers makes the main street a veritable white way decked for Christmas.

HOOVER SCORED ON RELIEF PLAN

co-operation will extend to smothering the measures disapproved by Hoover, which are understood to include the much-agitated $3,000,000,000 cash soldier bonus payment plan and the project for a bond issue or a tax increase to take care of direct federal relief remains to be seen.

In two hours the house passed and sent to the senate the administration's $110,000,000 special public works appropriation, cut from the president's tentative $150,000,000 figure.

In even less time, the senate passed and sent to the house a $60,000,000 farm loan authorization $35,000,000 larger than purposed by the administration and violating the president's principles by authorizing loans through the farm board to relieve human suffering as well as shortage of stock-feed, seed, and gasoline for tractors.

To Be Passed

Both bills are expected to be passed by the other house and sent to the president for signature before Christmas. The public works bill carries $80,000,000 for federal highways, $22,500,000 for rivers and harbors, $3,000,000 for Mississippi flood control, and the rest for roads in national forests and national parks, all of it to be spent in the next six months under direction of a cabinet committee on projects already authorized by congress.

Hoover, spoke with vigor today, at his 81-weekly press conference, as he read a prepared statement charging that those who are seeking large appropriations "are playing politics at the expense of human misery."

"Prosperity," he said, "cannot be destroyed by raids upon the public treasury."

Hits Increase

He did not enumerate the measures introduced in congress for large, extra-budgetal expenditures, but he said sternly:

"No matter how devised, an increase in taxes in the end falls upon the workers and farmers, or alternatively deprives industry of that much ability to give employment and defeat the very purpose of these schemes. For the government to finance by bond issues deprives industry and agriculture or just that much capital for its own use and for employment."

Carefully refraining from senate discussion of the president's statement until the $60,000,000 seed loan bill was passed, Republicans and Democrats exploded to correspondents about it in the anteroom. J. Couzens, Repn., Mich., read the statement and commented "it sounds like some of the bunk Secretary Mellon has been saying," adding he could not see how a tax increase on big fortunes would be passed on to the workers and farmers.

Hits Hoover

Smith Brookhart, Repn., Ia., said: "It is about the funniest statement I ever read. Perhaps it can be explained as an effort of the president to get his new Wall Street, non-partisan organization to function a little better."

Then Senator Caraway, Dem., Ark., opened up from the floor, charging that President Hoover himself "played politics with human misery" by minimizing distress prior to the November election. He demanded a bill of particulars as to what bills the president referred to.

"The reputation of the president rests on extending relief to humanity," said the Arkansas senator. "If that were eliminated, his biography would be a blank."

Business Survey Indicates Slump Near Termination

spirit and the second, I think, is the flood of money that was released by the Christmas clubs this year."

In connection with the Christmas clubs, which has released nearly a quarter of a million dollars to Richmond residents, an official of a local bank was interviewed.

"Only about fifteen percent of the money that we sent to club members this year," he said "has been returned in savings accounts. The other 85 percent has been placed into circulation—for the payment of taxes, old bills, and for the purchase of Christmas goods."

Business Better

"Business this year is better than last year," the manager of another department store told the interviewer yesterday. "Good merchandise is on sale — plenty of good merchandise that is being sold at prices far below those of last year.

"And the public is wise to the fact. They are making their dollar go further."

At a local furniture store, it was reported that their business this year is much better than last season.

Good Times Coming

And so it went, all down the line. Merchants of the city, with only one or two exceptions, were quite cheerful about the outlook.

"The spring of 1931 will see the re-opening of industry, the demand for new articles—and with the demand, the wheels of industry will increase their pace," one merchant said.

"And the more money spent this Christmas, means that better times are coming."
